Nancy Wynne Tells of the Polo Ball at Narragansett Pier—Southampton Street Fair Tomorrow—Smart Gown Worn by Mrs. Thomas Dolan

THIS week is probably the gayest of the season for Narragansett Pier, where so many of our smart town-folk are congregated for the summer. There is the polo at the Point Judith Country Club and there is the ball to be given tomorrow night at the Hotel de Ville in connection with the polo. It is called the Sport Ball and understand and everyone is going in sport costume.

MISS MERCY E. POWERS Daughter of Mrs. Elliott Smith, of Moorestown, who is spending the summer abroad. Miss Powers probably will make her debut this autumn.

At Southampton they are getting more and more excited over the polo ball. Instead of having the usual fence around the street marked off for the fair, there is to be a border of forty panels, painted by various artists and it is to be called the herbaceous border. Why herbaceous I do not quite know, for each artist has been given free play to his or her imagination and I doubt if any of them will choose flowers, fruit or trees as a subject.

A friend of mine who is stopping in Southampton writes that the thirty party will be at Mrs. Barton French's place on Monday and painted for hours during the afternoon until Mr. Fred Snow appeared on the scene, and Mrs. French promised to know the date of the party is to be held tomorrow and really I don't see how there will be enough time in the sixteen hours of festivities to get in everything that is planned.

Among the Philadelphians who are taking part are Mrs. James Francis Sullivan, Elaine C. Florentine, Miss John and Anita Strawbridge, Mrs. Mame Alms Clark, the prima donna, and her husband, Zimballist, the musician, are to be guests of the Charlie Mitchell at their villa here. Both of them have promised to assist Mrs. Mitchell at her booth and Prof. Bert Reese has consented to give sittings in mid-reading at the same booth. It is going to be a marvelous affair.

MRS. TOM DOLAN is one of the smartest-looking women in the city according to my thinking, and she is a great many who will with me that subject at least. I saw Mrs. Dolan in town on Tuesday, wearing a frock of a sort of taupe crepe, one of those new materials which are being worn in a more or less feminine, I never can be sure which is which, but they are stunning. He that it may be, the frock was embroidered in crepe silk blue and had long lines, having an ankle-length skirt. Mrs. Dolan's hat was a rather large model of thin black straw and was trimmed with a single dull red flower.

The Dolans have the Hartman Kuhns' place at Bryn Mawr this year. They had been living in Devon at the Howard Clark place since they left Torrington, Conn., in 1918. Mrs. Dolan is occupying the Torrens place on the river bank, and I doubt if they will ever go back there now. They are wedded to the Main line and their children are living along there.

Sarah and Paul Denckla have a house at Wynnewood, and Tom and Edith Harrison Dolan are at the Cottage at Devon. And Polly and Hoffman Dolan will also settle down at Bryn Mawr. Besides I understand Mr. Dolan has bought, not rented, the Kuhns place. The Dolans have the Kuhns place. The Dolans have the Kuhns place. The Dolans have the Kuhns place.

MOTHER took Mary into town for the first time the other day. They did some shopping in one of the department stores and among other things bought a new dress for Mary. When they got home Mary greeted him in great excitement. "An' Daddy, we went into a cute little room with painted white and gold, and we just stood still as mice, and—Daddy what do you think? The little room went up when we went out of it, we weren't there, we were somewhere else, wasn't it funny?"

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES Mrs. Mary Brown Warburton, of Tenafly, and Mrs. John W. Wainwright, Jr., of this city and New York, were the guests of honor at a luncheon which Mrs. Lucie Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Roy W. Baldwin, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., gave in New York yesterday in the Japanese Garden at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mr. John H. Brownback, Jr., of Bryn Mawr, who, with Mr. Brownback, is spending the summer at their cottage at Cape May, will draw up a check for $100,000 this afternoon in honor of his daughter, Miss Mary Virginia Brownback.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Conover, Jr., and Mrs. P. S. P. Randolph, Jr., and Mr. William E. Carter, of this city, were guests at a luncheon which Mrs. E. W. Lusk, of New York and New Narragansett Pier, gave yesterday at the Casino.

WHITE HOUSE PICKETS WAIT

Convicted Harding Will Review Political Prisoners' Cases Washington, Aug. 3.—President Harding's promise that reconsideration would be given the individual cases of so-called political prisoners still confined in Federal prisons for war-law violation, has caused advocates of amnesty to withdraw the children who have been picketing the White House for two months.

"We have been picketing the White House," said a statement authorized yesterday by Joint Amnesty Committee, "because the President refused to receive our plea in person, and there was no other method open to us to call it to his attention. On July 19, he received a delegation of citizens representing appeals signed by 1,000,000 persons, and to them he gave assurance that the cases in which reconsideration had been applied for would be decided in sixty days."
